WORLD SERIES NOTES.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Urban Faber, late of Cascade, Ia. Chicago American League pitcher and a base running strategist of sorts, left behind with his friends an explanation of his attempt to steal third base Sunday at a moment when Weaver was exercising squatter sovereignty in that apot.

"When I hit and reached second or the throw to the plate," Faber is quoted as explaining, "I saw Weaver rounding third as I pulled up, and thought he had acored. Perritt look a slow wind-up and I lit out for third. That's how it happened."
